What do we know about the accident on Monday?

Where the collision took place

Angela Wright

On Monday, Mr Robert Ogilvy was turning right into Victoria Avenue from Oakland Street when his car was hit by a van that was exceeding the speed limit. Both vehicles were badly damaged but no one was injured.

Mrs Angela Wright, who lives nearby and saw the accident as she was walking home, said, "This is the third accident this month. When you turn right from Oakland Street into Victoria Avenue, you can't see what's coming from the left because of the bend. And vehicles coming round that bend are usually going too fast to be able to stop in time if a car pulls out in front of them. For years now we've been asking the council to put traffic lights there, but it's like talking to a brick wall. They say it would be too expensive. But one of these days someone's going to get killed. Maybe then the council will do something."
